EXPLANATORY NOTES REGARDING PERFORMANCE

Gross fund performance (BVI method) takes into account all costs incurred at fund level (for example, management fees), net fund performance also takes into account the subscription fee. Further costs may be charged individually at customer level (e.g. custody fees, commissions and other charges). Example calculation (net method): An investor wishes to buy shares with capital of €1,000. Based on a maximum subscription fee of 5%, € 50 will be deducted from their investment as a one-off initial charge. In addition, custody fees may also be applied, which will further reduce the investor's return. The level of custody fees can be found in your bank's schedule of fees and services.

Please refer to the cost details presented in this document to determine the maximum subscription fee for the share class of the sub-fund.

The reference index is merely informative. It does not constitute any obligation from the fund manager to track the index or achieve the same performance.

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

The many changes in the trade conflict between China and the US – including the threat of new tariffs and signals indicating a willingness to begin new talks – continued to move markets in August. While some shares recorded highly significant price changes, the global MSCI World equity index ended the month with a loss of one per cent (in EUR). The conflict between the two largest economies in the world will likely continue. In our view, both countries are fighting for global hegemony and the conflict about trade surpluses and tariffs is just one of many factors. Weaker economic and inflation data raised expectations of further measures by the European Central Bank (ECB). Even before starting her term of office, future ECB President Christine Lagarde declared there is still room to lower interest rates. Ten-year government bond yields were negative for most eurozone countries at the end of August. The share price of the fund recorded a small decrease in this environment. At the individual security level, Novo Nordisk (after positive reception of its quarterly figures) and Unilever provided the largest positive contributions to value. Tencent (after negative reception of its quarterly figures) and Philip Morris, whose price was negatively affected by reports of a potential merger with Altria, generated the largest negative contributions.

The historical data used for calculating the synthetic indicator is not a reliable indication of the future risk and reward profile of the share class. The category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may shift over time. Even the lowest category does not mean a risk-free investment. This share class has been placed in the aforementioned risk class because its unit price is subject to significant fluctuation, therefore the profit potential and loss exposure may be high. Because of the calculation model used, all risks may not be taken into consideration when placing the share class in a risk class.
