

Flossbach von Storch - Dividend - R

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

Flossbach von Storch - Dividend is a globally diversified equity fund with an active investment approach. It focuses on top-quality companies with an attractive dividend profile. Not only the dividend yield, but also the reliability of dividend and dividend upside potential are important. When selecting individual stocks, the fund management employs the CaRat (cash-flow rating) valuation model, a rating system developed in-house. The cash flows that the company is expected to generate on a sustainable basis are considered in relation to the total value of the company. This provides an indication of whether or not a company has an attractive stock market valuation. At least 75% of the fund's assets are invested directly in equities. In addition, the fund may also invest in share certificates, equity index certificates, as well as bonds, fixed-term deposits and target funds.

EXPLANATORY NOTES REGARDING PERFORMANCE

Gross fund performance (BVI method) takes into account all costs incurred at fund level (for example, management fees), net fund performance also takes into account the subscription fee. Further costs may be charged individually at customer level (e.g. custody fees, commissions and other charges). Example calculation (net method): An investor wishes to buy shares with capital of €1,000. Based on a maximum subscription fee of 5%, € 50 will be deducted from their investment as a one-off initial charge. In addition, custody fees may also be applied, which will further reduce the investor's return. The level of custody fees can be found in your bank's schedule of fees and services.

Please refer to the cost details presented in this document to determine the maximum subscription fee for the share class of the sub-fund.

The reference index is merely informative. It does not constitute any obligation from the fund manager to track the index or achieve the same performance.

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

The US Federal Reserve (Fed) reduced its key interest rate for the third time in a row to a range of 1.5-1.75 per cent, but signalled it may pause before adjusting rates again. In December 2018, Fed Chairman Jerome Powell was still expecting three interest-rate increases this year. Mario Draghi's final Governing Council meeting at the European Central Bank (ECB) produced almost nothing newsworthy. Christine Lagarde, a lawyer and politician, has assumed the post of President and has already announced she will continue the use of expansive monetary policy. In our view, the low interest-rate level worldwide is a positive environment for equities. There is still no solution to the trade conflict between the USA and China. Global economic indicators are pointing to slower growth. Based on official data, Chinese growth is expected to be around six per cent this year, which would be the lowest rate in around 30 years. The US S&P 500 equity index recorded a new all-time high of 3,046 points in October. Gains were particularly large for cyclical equities, which also benefited the DAX index. The euro appreciated a good two per cent versus the US dollar during this period. This reduced performance from the point of view of euro investors. Philip Morris, Fuchs Petrolub and HDFC Bank provided the largest positive contributions to value over the month, while British American Tobacco, IBM and McDonald's made the largest negative contributions.

OPPORTUNITIES

- + These funds aim to exploit growth opportunities on global equity markets.
- + Investing in assets denominated in a foreign currency can have a positive impact on unit values as a result of exchange rate movements.
- + Derivatives can be used to increase potential yields.
- + Potential to achieve above-average dividend income.

RISKS

- Equity markets and thus also unit values can experience severe fluctuations in response to market developments. The result can be a fall in the trading price.
- Investing in assets denominated in a foreign currency can have a negative impact on unit values as a result of exchange rate movements.
- Where used, derivatives can have a greater negative impact on the fund value than would be the case if the assets were acquired directly. This can affect the fund's risk profile and volatility (tendency for the price to fluctuate).
- If dividends are reduced or not paid out at all, this can have a negative impact on investment returns.
- By hedging currency risks, the fund share value may be adversely affected.

For detailed information on opportunities and risks, please refer to the sales prospectus.

The historical data used for calculating the synthetic indicator is not a reliable indication of the future risk and reward profile of the share class. The category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may shift over time. Even the lowest category does not mean a risk-free investment. This share class has been placed in the aforementioned risk class because its unit price is subject to significant fluctuation, therefore the profit potential and loss exposure may be high. Because of the calculation model used, all risks may not be taken into consideration when placing the share class in a risk class. Detailed information can be found in the section entitled "Risks" of the prospectus.
